Denmark has an extensive transport network of train, bus and road connections and for delegates coming from across mainland Europe, making arrangements for group travel by car, minibus, coach or train can be a more cost effective and environmentally friendly option.

ODENSE AT A GLANCE

Odense is Denmark's third largest city with 200,000 inhabitants. The city is one of Denmark's oldest, granted town rights in the year 988. It was once the site of a Viking ring fortress on the banks of the Odense River. Due to this rich history, it has for centuries been a favorite destination for visitors, particularly known as the hometown of the celebrated author Hans Christian Andersen.

Centre of innovation, knowledge and education

An ambitious urban development plan is currently transforming the city with new green urban spaces, a city center closed for car traffic and a new university hospital physically linked to the university. All connected by an environment-friendly tramway. This transformation will further consolidate Odense's position as a centre of innovation, knowledge and education, with strong clusters in the fields of robotics, drones, health technology and IT.

Everything within walking distance

The city layout invites guests to wander its cobblestone streets with colourful houses, small shops and rows of cafés. The river flowing through the heart of Odense offers the chance for both relaxation and physical activity along a beautiful green oases. Odense is easy to reach, easy to navigate, and easy to feel at home in. If you arrive at the train station, it is only a few minutes' walk before arriving at your hotel or the congress venue.

UEC delegates will experience a strong gastronomic scene, charming historic neighborhoods, and a vibrant city life with restaurants, shopping, sights and cultural experiences.
